FREW & CAMPBELL PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETO

FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1878, THE Republican party in Paris has 22 newspapers with 100,000 subscribers; the Orientists, five papers, with a circulation of 30,000 copies; the Legisimists six, with a circulation of 35,000 copies; and the Bonspartist seven, with a cir-culation of 70,000 copies.

Mn. T. G. NELSON, of Sunsbury town-ship, Monroe county, Ohio, sheared ten thorough bred Merino sheep this spring from which he obtained 150 pounds of wool. The heaviest fleece pounds of wool. The heaviest liesce weighed sevateen pounds. The wool was of ten months' growth and of the best quality, the longest staple being four and-a-half inches.

A SCOTCHMAN professes to have discov ered, through a private letter, a Russian plan to destroy the English fleet. One thousand tons of crude petroleum is to be placed on the surface of the water and carried down the current when the ironclads are midway in the Straits. Then by the magical touch of fire, the whole is to be converted into a sea of flame, which will speedily destroy the crews, and leave the ships subject to the convenience of the enemy. The Russians can easily obtain a supply of petroleum from the wells in Roumania and the Caucasus, which appear inexhaustible. Such is the plan as reported by the Scotchman, whose imagination surely must have been playing strange antics with him, as it can hardly saible that the Russians have gone back to the dark ages.

THE Chicsgo papers are sounding notes of alarm on account of the strength of the Communists in that city. The or-ganization is formidable in numbers and growing, and, what is an anomaly, ranks amongst its members many Americans. Their avowed principles are such as are inimical to all recognized law and order, and in Chicago it is said they are not only holding frequent meetings but are actnally forming themselves into compactly drilled organizations, and arming them-selves as well, for violent measures The fear is, indeed the certainty is that the active leaders of the organizations who are indefatigable workers, and who would leave no stone unturned or effort untried to accomplish their ends, are busi-ly engaged in enrolling into their ranks many of the unemployed, who, perhaps it is not strange to say, have been led to believe from the specious reasonings o these fanatics, that their present condi-tion of forced idleness is owing in a great measure to the "depression of 'labor' through the oppression of 'capital.'" These idle men who would ordinarily be harmless and law-abiding, when once drawn away by the arguments of the com-munists become the worst and most unreasonable amongst them all, and form one of the most dangerous elements in the whole organization. The idea of returning to honest employment becomes repug nant, and each one at once a self-consti-tuted ruler, acknowledges no law but that of force, and devotion to the "Commune." Through their papers and cir-culars, (and they have their publications scattered broadcast), they are taught the pernicious doctrines of "socialistic reform," and once imbued with these there is very little argument of use against them that comes with less force than a charge of cavalry. We cannot wonder at the growing anxiety of the inhabitants of the larger cities where these organiza-tions exist in such strength as is reported. Chicago may have proportionately a larger number than other cities, but the larger number than other cities, out the communist poison is in the atmosphere of almost every city of any size in the Union, and if allowed to spread may be come a canker in the body politic for which it will be difficult to find an adequate and effectual remedy.

Crop Prospects.

Сигсадо, Аргіl 27, 1878. have had an agricultural "pull The telegraph has no doubt given back." The telegraph has no doubt given you the paticulars of the great storms of wind, hail and rain which during the wind, hail and rain which during the present week have awept over the Northwest, and caused great damage both to life and to property. Yet we hear of no material injury to the favorable prospects for our crops for which the present sea. So anonymously, I called on Mrs. Titon to the interview:

"I have no objections to telling the substance of the interview; if I can do for our crops for which the present sea. So anonymously, I called on Mrs. Titon only ming between Wheeling and Ein Grove. for our crops for which the present sea-son has been so marked. When we take into consideration the fact that all our into consideration the fact that all our farm work—such as plowing, seeding and planting—is, on an average, at least three weeks in advance of any former years since 1802, we are not inclined to look at the present standill in anything but the light of a temporary suspension of the great agricultural work which has gone: on without interruption since February. Take for example, the great wheat-growing States of Minnerota and Nebraska. The rains for the present week which have stopped corn planting here, has forced the spring wheat, and where there has been any indication of insects the cold rains have put a stop to their work, and has had the same effect as it did upon the grasshopper eggs in the spring of 1877. The wet season last year came one month later and continued until June. Yet our correspondents did not despair of a good average crop of wheat. When harvest came their hopes were more than realized, It will not be over six weeks before in some of the winter wheat regions the harvest will commence. The lumbermen who have been predicting a drouth are now also rejoicing over; the fact that the rains with cambie them to have a 'good drive of logs,' and they will be able to realize the remunerative prices which lumber is now brigging here in Chicago. We regard it also as a faverable circumstance that in the great corn belt of Illinois so little corn has as yet been planted. We can stand two weeks of just such weather as we are now having, and there is no reason for any apprehension with regard to our present agricultural condition.

ISINTEMPERANCE A GREEASE?

Views of Two Prominent Physical Cians that it is Not.—What Dr. Gray, of Utica, Says.

Uites Observer.

Dr. Willis E. Ford, assistant physician of the State Lunatic Asylum, delivered an address on temperance in the chapel of the Hisceter Sirect Explict Church last night. After-prayers and some appropriate remarks by, Ser. Dr. Corey, Dr. Ford legan his lecture. He said that a half trained, emotional man, with no principle, is the most likely to form habits of intemperance. The question before designed to the destructive course of life? No amount of legislation can avail anything, for it is inherent in man to resist any encroach ment upon his personal liberty. No amount of sentimentalism will do any good. The temperance clubs oraganized to provide harmless amusement for those who would otherwise spend their time in har rooms will have but a temporary restraining influence.

EFFECT UPON THE BRAIN.

EFFECT UPON THE BRAIN. Brain-workers very often engage to do more than their physical strength will sustain, and in order to accomplish this task in a given time, they resort to brandy to quicken their flagging energies, though at an expense of that reserve force which no man realizes. The atimulant is soon taken often, and before long he finds himself broken in health and with an habitual drinking habit formed.

INTEMPERANCE NOT HEREDITARY.

THE CRAVING FOR LIQUOR.

The craving for drink is very rarely the desire for the taste for liquor, but rather that unrest and discomfort which is felt when any habit of body has been discontinued or changed, and the system misses the pleasurable break in the monotony of life. What we insist on is, that no man is obliged to be a drunkard, and to plead against the viciousness of the habit that the man's father was a drunkard is about as weak as it would be to plead as the sole defense of the murderer that the father had slaughtered people by wholesale, and had transmitted an irresistable tendency to imitate him. * Sinchriety is not a disease, but a self-provoked, temporary perversion of our natural functions induced for the purpose of sinful gratification. * Sinchriety and successful and succ

THE MODERATE USE.

THE MODERATE USE.

The moderate use of alcoholic stimulants with meals is not only harmless, but promotes digestion, and especially after fatigue gives a degree of comfort and restfulness. No healthy man needs it, however, and it is a question if this minister of comfort is not so easily transmuted into a destroyer that it is too dangerous a guest to be admitted into the household at all.

DR. JOHN P. GRAY. DR. JOHN P. GRAY.

hold at all.

DR, JOHN P, GRAY,

who was called upon by Dr. Corey, said that he was present as a listener, but by request of Dr. Corey, he was glad to say that he indorsed fully the views so ably and simply presented by Dr. Ford. The idea of hereditary transmission has induced men to blind themselves, and seek only gratification. It is not the father or the mother who is to blame for the son's drunkenness, but the son himself. I am glad to see so many women defending the temperance cause. How many defend their husbands and sons on the ground that it was born in them. A kind word from the mother to her boy may save him where the pretense of heredity would send him to ruin. Another point I am glad to see set forth—drunkenness is not a disease. The State has erected an institution where the drunkard can reflect for a time on his habits, and perhaps reform himself, and it is hoped, with the present superintendence, much good will be done. When a man has a flask in his pocket he has the disease.

The meeting closed with some carnest
and appropriate remarks from Dr.
Corey.
